Style Guide

Spring 2025

Alexander College

WRITING AND LEARNING CENTRE

Welcome to MLA

This guide provides instructions and examples for citing sources in MLA style.

What is MLA?

MLA stands for Modern Language Association, which is the name of the group who standardized this style of formatting and citing.

What is a citation?

Citations are a way to show where you found the information you are using in your work.

When do I have to cite?

Every sentence with outside information (anything that is NOT your own thoughts or interpretations) should end with a citation and have a corresponding reference in the "Works Cited" section at the end of your paper.

NOTE: Some instructors have their own requirements for citations. Please cite according to your instructor's guidelines, but keep in mind that they may be different from the MLA style guide's citation requirements.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism means using another author's words or ideas as your own without crediting the original source.

Common examples of plagiarism in academic writing include:

- Not including a citation when directly quoting or paraphrasing another author's words or ideas.
- Having another person write your paper for you.
- Misrepresenting another person's words or including incorrect citations.
- Not changing both language and sentence structure when paraphrasing a source. For example, only changing a few words for synonyms.

Plagiarism is not always intentional, but the consequences of committing it can be severe. The best way to avoid plagiarism is to do your own work, cite your sources, and ask for help if you need it.

Artificial Intelligence (AI) in Assignments

AI is not a reliable source of information and is not acceptable for most assignments. You should not use AI unless explicitly permitted by your instructor. If you're unsure, ask before using it.

If you do use it, you must give credit when using text or ideas generated by AI software (ChatGPT, Grammarly, translators, etc.) in your paper and include citations. Using AI without being honest is plagiarism.

Glossary

Accessed Date	The date that you read the source.
Anthology	An edited collection featuring works (e.g., articles, poems etc.) by different authors.
Consecutive Citation	A sentence that needs a citation followed immediately by another sentence that needs a citation to the same source.
et al.	Means “and others.” Used in cases of three or more authors.
Group Author	A company, association, organization, government department, or agency.
Indent	The 1.27 cm or 0.5-inch space from the margin on the first line of every paragraph and the second line onward of every Works Cited entry.
Indirect Citation	When you are using the ideas of one author written in another person's work. In-text, you will cite the author you are reading AND the one they are quoting.
Inverted	Words placed in the opposite order, such as moving the last name to the front (last name, first name).
Last Name	A family name or surname.
Medium	The type of art or post. Examples include photo, video, etc.
MLA	Modern Language Association.
Page Range	The first and last page numbers of an article or story. This is the section of a journal or book that you referenced.
Stable URL/Permalink or DOI	A link that will stay consistent over time. A DOI (Digital Object Identifier) is a unique string used for online journals and academic articles.

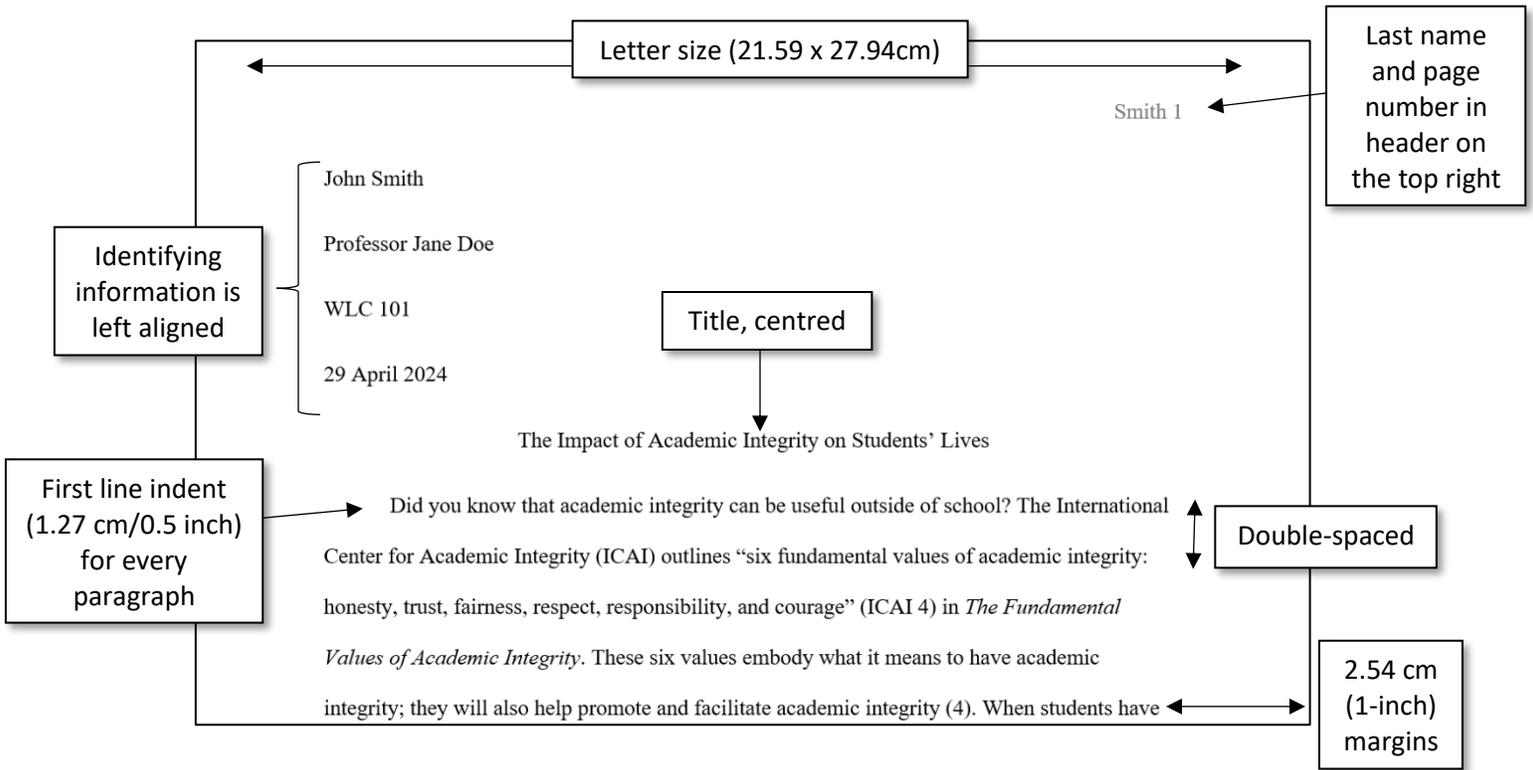

Paper Formatting

General Formatting & First Page

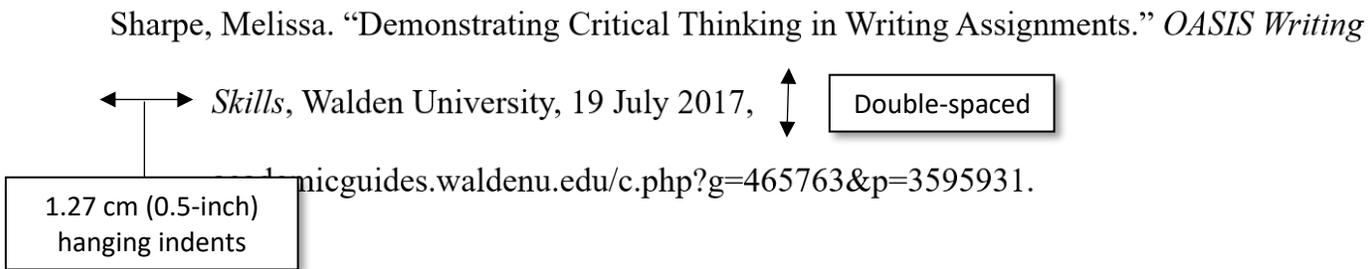

Every paper should be formatted accordingly:

- Student’s last name and page number in the top right corner of the header.
- Your name, instructor’s name, course code, and the due date at the top of the first page, left aligned.
 - Instructors may expect different information on the title page than is listed here. If so, follow the instructor's guidelines.

NOTE: Word documents are set to this size by default. Normally, students will not have to change the size and margins of their document.

Entries in the Works Cited list should be formatted accordingly:

In-Text Citations

When you use information, ideas, or facts that come from a source, you need to include a citation. In the body of the assignment, put parentheses () with the source information at the end of every sentence that includes outside information.

Include in-text citations for:

- Direct quotations: If you copy words from somewhere, you must include a citation. Use “quotation marks” to show that they are the author’s original words.
 - Example: The author claims “the number one cause of student stress before exams is poor time management” (Samuels 6).
- Paraphrases and Summaries: When you take an idea, fact or opinion from a source and rewrite it in your own words, you must include a citation.
 - Example: The main reason students feel stressed before exams is that they don’t plan their time well (Samuels 6).

Required information for in-text citations in MLA style:

- Author’s last name(s)
- Page number (skip this if there is no page number)
- Timestamp (if citing a video/film)

Note: Each in-text citations should match a reference in the Works Cited page at the end of the essay. Only include in-text citations for sources that are used in the essay.

	In-text citation	Explanation
1 Author	(Gilbert 133)	Put the author’s last name and the page number in parentheses (). Do not add any punctuation.
2 Authors	(Groake and Tindale 33)	Write both last names with “and” not “&.”
3+ Authors	(Belch et al. 99)	Only write the first author’s last name followed by “et al.” to represent the other authors.
No Page Number	(Elengical)	If there is no page number, do not add one.
Group Author	(Simon Fraser University 23) or (SFU 23)	When there is no named author for a work written by a company, organization, or government department, use the name of the group author or a recognized acronym.
No Author - Article	Full title: “The Impact of Global Warming in North America” (“Impact of Global Warming” 37)	Shorten title to the first three words or a phrase. Put titles of articles in “quotation marks.” Remove the words “the, a, an” at the beginning of the title.

In-Text Citations

Film	(Spirited Away) (Spirited Away 01:35:15-01:38:48)	Write the title of the film in italics. Use timestamps when you describe a specific scene or dialogue. Timestamps are expressed in hours, minutes and seconds— HH:MM:SS.
Artificial Intelligence (AI)	("Describe the symbolism")	Write a shortened version of the prompt used. *NOTE: Most instructors strictly prohibit the use of AI (e.g., ChatGPT, translators, Grammarly, etc.). If allowed, be honest about what content AI has generated with citations.

Quotation vs. Paraphrase

- Paraphrases do not require quotation marks.
- Paraphrases and direct quotes require the same citation information in MLA style.

Direct Quote "A key goal of Indigenous style is to show respect on the page" (Younging 87).

Paraphrase Treating the page with respect is one of Indigenous style's primary objectives (Younging 87).

Consecutive Citations in MLA

- Use consecutive citations when citing the same source multiple times with no other sources cited in between.
- For the first sentence, cite a source as normal. After that, only use the page number.
 - If the page number is not available, use the author's last name again.

With Page Numbers:

The first citation has the author's last name and page number

When considering factors of youth mental health, "Family-focused treatment 'packages' in LMICs is particularly important" (Pedersen et al. 2038). Some key environmental aspects that foster mental well-being are "parent mental health, family cohesion and parent-child attachment" (2037).

The second citation has only the page number

Without Page Numbers:

If a source does not have a page number, repeat the author's last name each time

When considering factors of youth mental health, "Family-focused treatment 'packages' in LMICs is particularly important" (Pedersen et al.). Some key environmental aspects that foster mental well-being are "parent mental health, family cohesion and parent-child attachment" (Pedersen et al.).

Non-integrated and Integrated Citations

- There are two options for writing citations: Non-integrated and Integrated.

Non-Integrated: End of the Sentence	These researchers found that people reported higher levels of happiness when they “used their financial resources to help others versus themselves” (Atkin et al. 22).	Include all the required citation information at the end of the sentence in brackets ().
Integrated: Within the Sentence	Atkin et al. found that people reported higher levels of happiness when they “used their financial resources to help others versus themselves” (22).	Write the author's name in the sentence and then add the page number at the end of the sentence.

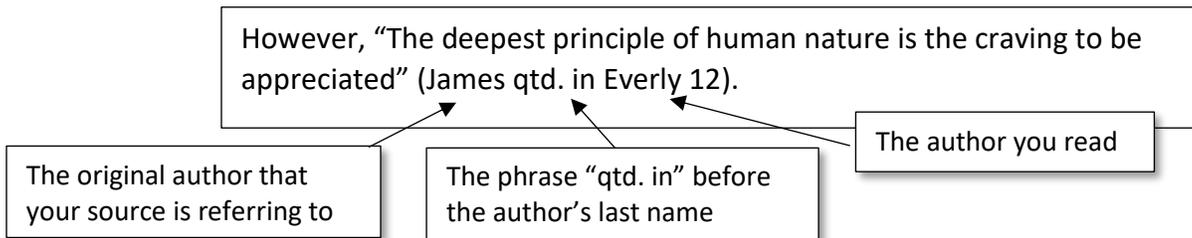

Indirect Citations in MLA

You use indirect citations when the article or book you are reading contains information from another source that you would like to cite. You should use an indirect citation when you paraphrase or quote that information.

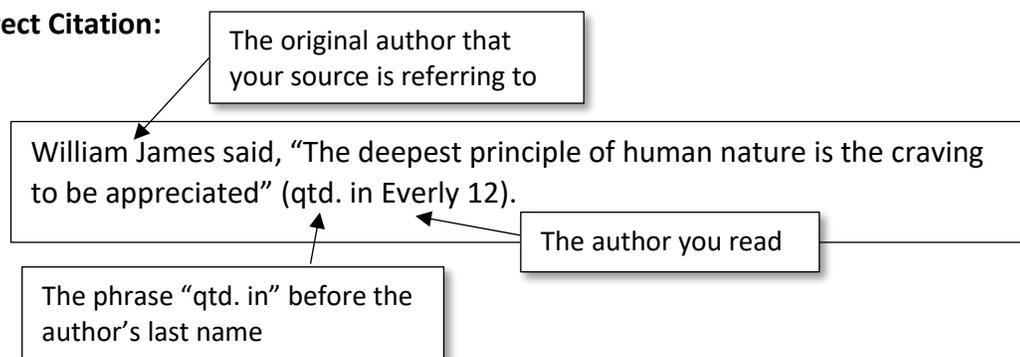

Author of article you read Harold Everly

Text from the article William James argued that “the deepest principle of human nature is the craving to be appreciated.”

Non-Integrated Indirect Citation:

Integrated Indirect Citation:

Works Cited

No Author - Article	The Impact of Global Warming in North America	"The Impact of Global Warming in North America."	Put the full article title in "quotation marks."
YouTube Videos	13 Smallest Animals in the World	"13 Smallest Animals in the World."	Use "quotation marks" around YouTube video titles.
Movies	Spirited Away	Spirited Away.	Put movie titles in italics .
